

Get Global!

A skills-based approach to active global citizenship
Key stages three and four

New, exciting, not-to-be-missed global citizenship resource!

Get Global! is a teachers' guide on how to facilitate and assess active global citizenship.

It provides a structure for students to manage their own learning. It allows them to move from thinking about issues that are important to them, analysing the issue chosen both locally and globally, participating in action, and reflecting on performance.

A range of innovative and participatory activities promote a skills-based approach rather than a content-based approach, so they can be used within different subject areas and with all ages.

Out of all the information about citizenship in my in-tray, Get Global! was the only project I wanted to get involved with because it's skills-based, unbiased and fun.
