

Change lives. For good.

Dear

I am getting in touch to ask you if you would consider taking part in ActionAid's primary school fundraiser, Big Me.

From spacesuits to stethoscopes, chefs' aprons to racing drivers' overalls, children can explore their ambitions in fun and imaginative ways. By asking pupils to dress up as their dream job, teachers will help them explore their future, realise their aspirations and learn about the challenges faced by girls living in poverty around the world.

With free and brand-new teaching resources, it couldn't be a better time to inspire your schools with ActionAid's primary school fundraiser, Big Me! By signing up, your school will be joining hundreds of schools across the UK, raising aspirations – and money – to change the lives of women and girls.

Simply pick a day and ActionAid will send a free pack of posters, stickers and fundraising ideas, as well as giving them exclusive access to our online literacy resources. By hosting a Big Me day and asking each child to bring in £1 to take part, your school will help us support girls around the world to create the future they want.

By taking part, you'll help to transform the lives of women and girls around the world.

For more information or to sign-up, you can visit www.actionaid.org.uk/Big-Me.

Best wishes,
